

2cTHE DAY BOOKAn Adless Newspaper,
Daily Except Sunday2c*ARTIE QUINN, PROCHOWSKI
AND SIX OTHERS INDICTED

"Artie" Quinn, Adam Prochowski and other alleged members of the "gold coast" robbery band were indicted by the January grand jury today on charges growing out of the robbery of the homes of Geo. M. Reynolds, John Borden and David B. Jones, after State's Att'y Hoyne had personally presented the case to the inquisitorial body.

The others hit were: Julius Friedlander, alias "Red Fries", Louis Kohn, Gus Englehardt, Gus Zeidler, Lem Nutter and Leonard. Prochowski was indicted on three charges of burglary, the bonds aggregating $75,000.

Adam Prochowski, who became a burglar as a result of the bricklayers' strike in which the union men were crushed by the employers, is expected to make a new statement today that will clinch the case of State's Att'y Hoyne against "Prince Artie" Quinn, son of James A. Quinn, Harrison politician.

In his confession yesterday Prochowski named Quinn as the brains of the "Gold Coast" burglary raids and the man who aided him in making his escape to Evansville. He said that Quinn introduced him to Lem Nutter and Leonard Olson, two members of the alleged city-wide burglary trust.

Gus Englehart, named as one of the crooks in Englehart's confession, was arrested yesterday. Today he was in conference with Hoyne's assistants. It is said he is willing to tell all he knows of the North Shore robberies.

Six men were picked up yesterday on charges of receiving stolen autos or as accessories. They are: Geo. Cheromos, 320 W. 12th; Sam ("Kinky-Haired") Harris, owner of Burr Oak Inn; Jos. Barnes, his partner; Lee Ragsdale, mechanic; Lee Ragsdale, Jr., and W. Schoenfeld, 64th av. and Irving Park blvd.

Hoyne said Artie Quinn promised the gang that he would "fix" the state's attorney's office. He also said Quinn had worked with wire-tappers, pickpockets and other members of the underworld family.

During the day Chief Schuettler said he would ask the revocation of the saloon license of Silver & Turberg, 670 N. Clark st., where the "gold coast" gang met and planned their raids.

George M. Reynolds, David B. Jones and John Borden testified before the grand jury this morning concerning the robbery of their homes on the "gold coast." They were followed by Arthur Fink, ex-ass't corp. counsel, who tried to get writs for Lem Nutter and Leonard Olson. It is understood that he told the jurors he had been retained by Nutter's wife. Then Adam Prochowski, "the master crook," thrilled the grand jury by the story of his crimes.

Lincoln Bartlett, designer of gowns for exclusive society, filed answer to divorce suit of wife denying her charge of cruelty.

WEATHER FORECAST

Unsettled and warmer tonight and Sunday, probably rain or snow; lowest temperature tonight about 25 degrees; moderate easterly winds, becoming fresh to strong south to southwest Sunday. Temperature Friday: High, 16; low, 15.